

Psychological Assessment - Information

1. The cost of a psychological assessment for your child can range depending on the type and complexity of the assessment. Our psychologists charge $235 per hour which is the recommended rate set by the Psychology Association of Saskatchewan. In many cases, an ADHD assessment takes approximately 10 hours while a more complex assessment such as a learning assessment could take up to 18 hours. This means that assessments can range from approximately $2350 to $4230 in total.
2. Dragonfly bills at three different points in the assessment:
  - a. The first bill is sent after the initial consultation appointment which lasts 1-2 hours.
  - b. The second bill is sent after the child testing session(s) are completed. There are usually one or two sessions for simple assessments, but there could be more depending on the type and complexity of assessment. You will be billed after each session.
  - c. The final bill is sent after the assessment report is completed and after you have the feedback session. After final payment is received the psychologist will send you the report.
3. If you have private insurance that you plan to use we recommend that you contact your provider prior to the beginning of the assessment to discuss whether or not you have coverage for this service.
4. Please note that this psychological assessment is for your child. As a result all bills will have your child's name listed as the client.
